Business revival waits now on cost reduction

Industry and trade must be revived. They must be put on a normal basis as quickly as possible. There is no doubt that there are days of big business ahead. It is the duty of every interest in the state of Peninsylvania to do everything possible to hasten the return of wonted activity.

The railroads of this state realize that they must aid in the downward readjustment, now working to swiftly by reduced rates of fares and haulage. . To do this, every wasteful expenditure must be eliminated One of these is the operation of the "Full Crew Law", which causes the waste of $3,-500,000 a year now being paid to excess men in train crews employed under legal compulsion.

These men add nothing of safety or efficiency in the lunning of trains. They do add to the cost of train operation. In other words, there are more men employed in both freight and passenger service than are actually necessary. The raliroads must operate more economically: but the law says they shall not The railroads want to save $3,500,000 annually to devote to improving their service. But the law says they shall not do that It is to the interest of every man, woman, and child in the country that this $3,500,000 be employed in channels for the public good, but the law says it shall not Think what $3,500,000 would do in buying clothes and shoes It would buy exactly 100,000 suits at $35 00 each At $7 00 a pair, it would buy 500,000 pairs of shoes / At $7,000 each, it would build 5,000 homes

To earn $3,500,000 (gross) the railroads must haul 1,650,000 tons of hard coal from the mines to Philadelphia- about a third of that city's annual supply. To earn this sum means the transportation of 25.362,000 bushels of grain from Buffalo to Philadelphia. Or they would have to haul 5,-756,000 barrels of apples from Winchester Va., to New York using nearly 32,000 cars to do it.

With $3 500,000, even at present high costs, the roads could bry 114 new steel coaches, 51 fine new locomotives 760 coal cars 73,000 tons of steel rails or 1.750,000 cross ties Think of this -$3,-500,000 is the cost of faies for 760,000 people travcling 100 miles cach

With $3,500,000 which the repeal of this unjust law will save, the railroads could carry, at six per cent, a new capital investment of above $58 .-000,000 and spend every cent of it to increase and improve transportation facilities.

Help bring costs of operation down. You can do it by writing to your assemblyman or Senator at Harrisburg and tell him that you favor the repeal of the so-called "Full Crew Law." Help save $3,-500,000 a year so as to improve transportation for your benefit
